Learning Point Associates Copyright Permission Policy

Material for Online Use

- Permission is not required to link to any document or page on a Learning Point Associates website, but we appreciate notification of use. You can let us know by filling out the brief link-notification section of the form on page 2.
- Although we welcome links to our websites, we will not grant permission for downloading or posting any Learning Point Associates material on another website, newsgroup, or electronic mailing list.

Material for Print or Publication

The following copyright permission guidelines apply for all Learning Point Associates products:

- Permission is required to include Learning Point Associates products or excerpts in any other document or publication, unless such usage is protected by the Fair Use clause of current copyright statutes. For example, permission is not required to excerpt material that does not represent the core and essence of the document.
- Permission is required to duplicate an individual item to give (at no charge) to a limited number of colleagues or recipients for educational purposes.
- Permission will not be granted for duplication of any product offered on the Learning Point Associates Product Catalog (www.learningpt.org/catalog/) for a fee.
- Learning Point Associates must be cited as the owner of the materials in any advertisements, handouts, or other publications.
- Although use of our materials is welcomed, permission will not be given for commercial sale of Learning Point Associates material.
- The material may not be altered in any way.
- All copyrights and trademarks remain the property of Learning Point Associates.
